General Terms of Sale

■ Registration

- Registrations are recorded as and when they are received.
- Registrations received after registration of the maximum number of students on a course are put on a waiting list. If possible, the applicant may be offered deferment to a subsequent session.
- A signed registration form implies acceptance of these general terms of sale.

■ Prices

- As the Continuing Education activities of ICN Business School are not liable for VAT, all our prices are free of VAT. They are all-inclusive prices.
- Unless otherwise stipulated in the training agreements, prices do not include costs of meals or accommodation.
- Any course started is payable on a prorata temporis basis, according to the terms and conditions set out in detail in the "cancellations and deferments" paragraph.

■ Intellectual property

- All the materials, programmes, lessons, works or documents given to participants during the courses remain the exclusive intellectual property of ICN Business School.

■ Terms of payment

- In the event of non-payment in full of an invoice that is due, and if subsequent notice to pay remains unanswered for 5 working days, ICN reserves the right to suspend the student's access to all current and/or future training.
- When payment for the training must be made by an OPCA (accredited collecting agency), pursuant to the French Labour Code, the company guarantees the participant's attendance at the course and payment of the price thereof. The company must therefore send a request for payment prior to the start of the course and stipulate it specifically on the registration form or the order form. The company shall also satisfy itself that the appointed collecting agency has indeed made full payment. Consequently, companies must, when registering their employee (s), specify whether the invoice should be issued in the name of a collecting agency (name and address). If the OPCA only partially pays for the cost of the course, the remainder shall be charged to the client. If ICN has not received acceptance to pay from the OPCA by the first day of the course, the client will be charged for the full cost of the course.
- In the event of non-payment by the OPCA, for any reason whatsoever, the client shall owe the full cost of the course and shall be charged the corresponding amount.

- Notice of any deferment or cancellation must be given in writing.
- ICN Business School reserves the right to cancel or postpone the training course if the number of participants is insufficient. In this case, the student or the company may be offered a deferment to the next session of said course.
- In the event that the student drops out of the course for any reason other than duly acknowledged force majeure, this agreement shall be terminated according to the following financial terms and conditions:
 - > For courses leading to a diploma, any course started is payable on a prorata temporis basis. For any cancellation less than 10 working days prior to the start of the course, the 30% deposit paid at the time of registration shall be retained by ICN Business School.
 - > For courses leading to a certificate, for any cancellation less than 10 working days prior to the start of the course, 30% of the price of the course remains payable.
- If the student is prevented from attending the course as a result of a duly acknowledged force majeure event and whatever the type of course, the professional training agreement shall be terminated. In this case, only the classes actually given shall be payable on a prorata temporis basis to their value, as stipulated in this agreement.
